

neys, the prominent character of which is the composition of a peculiar granular matter in the substance of the renal gland, together with the gradual atrophy of its cortical and tubular structure.

I have broken the translucent glass of my kaleidoscope. How shall I replace it? A. Obtain a piece of finely ground glass, cut to the exact size of the tube, and fit it as before.

(31) I. H. R. says: 1. Some time since, you published a plan of making the baroscope of Babinet. After the baroscope is constructed, and the red fluid made to rise in the glass tube by blowing into it, must the top be sealed? A. No. It may be drawn out to a point, but the tip of this must be broken off in order that the air may press upon the surface of the liquid in the tube. A very minute hole will answer the purpose. 2. Is it necessary that the baroscope should be placed in the open air for the effect of the atmosphere? A. No.

(32) L. C. E. says: I make black ink, but it corrodes the pen. The ingredients are blue galls, sulphate of iron, acetate of copper, gum arabic, and sugar. How can I remedy this corrosion? A. It is probable that the sulphate of copper is not neutral. Try the addition, with constant agitation, of a solution of carbonate of ammonia until a precipitate just begins to form.

(33) F. R. W. asks: Can the American black walnut be stained or changed to a light color? A. Strong nitric acid changes the appearance of good black walnut to that of light mahogany. Chlorine and chlorinated lime bleach it.

(34) H. R. says: I am driving a circular saw by hand power with a 2 inch belt from a 5 feet driving wheel to a 3 inch pulley on the saw shaft. The objection to this plan is that the large wheel occupies so much room. Please give me some idea of the loss of power I shall sustain by using a countershaft and a smaller driving wheel. A. If the shafting is accurately fitted, the loss will probably not exceed 10 or 12 per cent.

(35) C. J. asks: Is there any chemical that will bleach rosin as it runs out with spirits of turpentine? A. No. It is impracticable.

(36) C. R. asks: What relative efficiency have petroleum and coal as fuel? If you have to generate steam in a boiler, and you use 1 ton good steam coal, how many lbs. crude petroleum would you require, with perfect combustion, to do the same work? A. About 1,366 lbs.

(37) C. P. S. asks: How can light colored tobacco leaf be made dark without injury to the leaf and its burning qualities? A. We know of nothing that we can recommend for this purpose.

(38) A. A. M. asks: Is there anything that can be put into preserves to keep them from canying? A. We do not know of any way of avoiding it with concentrated sirups.

(39) S. O. asks: Would two extra keels, one on each side, just below the water line, a little shorter than the main keel, make a canoe sail closer to the wind, and let it carry more sail? Canoe is 20 feet long by 4 feet wide, and has a keel about 7 inches deep. A. There is some difference of opinion on this subject. If any of our readers have made experiments, we would be glad to hear from them.

(40) G. E. S. says: I wish to put an upright boiler in a steam launch 35 feet long, 6 feet wide, and about 3 feet deep. It is desirable to get the weight of the boiler as low as possible, and to have it as large in diameter as would be safe. What diameter and length of tube would you recommend, to drive two 6x6 inches vertical engines? A. About 4 feet in diameter and 6 feet high.

HINTS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Correspondents whose inquiries fail to appear should repeat them. If not then published, they may conclude that, for good reasons, the Editor declines them. The address of the writer should always be given.

Enquiries relating to patents, or to the patentability of inventions, assignments, etc., will not be published here. All such questions, when initials only are given, are thrown into the waste basket, as it would fill half of our paper to print them all; but we generally take pleasure in answering briefly by mail, if the writer's address is given.

Hundreds of inquiries analogous to the following are sent: "Who sells red cedar? Who sells lead pencils? Who sells German silver penholders? Who sells imitation gold pens? Who sells bread-cutting machines? Who makes a machine for ironing collars? Who is the best furnace for burning wet tan? Who sells the best steam trap? Who makes the best fire engine lanterns?" All such personal inquiries are printed, as will be observed, in the column of "Business and Personal," which is specially set apart for that purpose, subject to the charge mentioned at the head of that column. Almost any desired information can in this way be expeditiously obtained.
