AERONAUTICS
 Is a monthly paper in which the Proceedings of the recent Aeronautical Congress held in Chicago will be published. The latest accessible notes, news and information about aeronautical engineering will be given each month with reports of experiments, investigations and illustrations of new inventions, with original contributions and articles written expressly for its pages, selected matter from foreign and domestic sources and editorial comments thereon. It will, in short, be a small paper devoted exclusively to the fascinating subject of aviation, the interest in which is increasing so rapidly. It is published monthly by M. N. FORNEY, at 47 Cedar St., New York. Subscription $1.00 per year, single copies 10 cents.
