(7424) W. H. C. asks: Kindly give me a method (such as I can use in a laboratory) for the separation of nicotine from tobacco.

(7425) W. F. A. writes: I have a small fan motor, which is intended to run on 32-volt alternating circuit. It is of the brush and commutator type, with 26 poles to the armature core.

(7426) D. asks: What is the difference (if any) between static electricity generated by a frictional machine and the electricity induced in the secondary of an induction coil?

(7427) C. R. G. writes: A weight clock is running with perfect accuracy. If the weights are changed to very much heavier ones, would the clock run with the same accuracy without adjustment?

The weight or spring of a clock furnishes the power to move the train of wheels. These are so constructed that at each swing of the pendulum or balance wheel a tooth of the escapement wheel strikes upon and gives a slight impulse to the pendulum or balance wheel.
