

is customary to place crucibles in the muffle, back of the cupels, to keep them and the metal sufficiently cool for cupellation; but the placing and adjustment of such crucibles requires a great expense of time and labor, which it is the purpose of this invention to obviate.

ORE-SEPARATOR.—WILLIAM HOOPER, Ticonderoga, N. Y. This device is designed to separate gold from sand or gravel without the use of water. A flexible bed is secured to an inclined frame and is inclined down to the sides.

REIN-SUPPORT.—JOHN G. RYCKMAN, Knappa, Ore. To the bridle a strap is secured by one end, the other end being attached to the hames. A ring is secured to the central portion of the strap, and through the ring the driving-rein passes, whereby a support for the rein will be provided a short distance from and in front of the hames.

EGG-SEPARATOR.—JOHN A. BURNS, Woodbine, Iowa. It is the object of this invention to provide an apparatus for separating eggs from the filling material—bran, oats, etc.—in which they are packed and shipped.

GASOMETER.—WILLIAM F. COOPER, Meriden, Conn. The inventor of this gasometer has sought to dispense with the usual water-seal and to give the bell a larger range of movement to adapt it for acetylene generators.

BARREL-SHIELD.—WILLIAM A. FRASER, Guthrie, Oklahoma Territory. To provide a cover for barrels such as are used in grocery stores, the inventor has devised a shield of tin, zinc, sheet-iron, paper, or other suitable material, plated or japanned in colors and lettered to indicate the contents of the barrel.

CHOKEBORE ATTACHMENT FOR GUNS.—RANDOLPH P. CORY, St. Louis, Mo. This device is an improvement on a choke-attachment patented by the same inventor; and the present invention provides a means whereby the fastening strain in securing the choke-attachment to the gun-barrel is exerted in lines parallel with the axis of the barrel and choke-section.

SASH-HOLDER.—SCOTT A. MORROW and JARRET C. HALCOM, Commerce, Tex. In suitable recesses in the stiles of a sash, springs are held so that they will extend in a direction away from the stile and at an oblique angle to the side edges of the stiles.

FOLDING COT.—JAMES H. MARTINDALE, Fort Worth, Tex. The object of the invention is to improve the corner irons or brackets connecting the end and side bars and the legs, so that these parts will be rigidly held in their operative position.

Designs.

BADGE.—HERMANN SCHAEFFER, Brooklyn, New York city. The leading feature of the design consists of a bust picture of Dewey surrounded by a wreath, at the lower portion of which is a spread-eagle, anchor-arms, and two crossed cannons.

DOOR OR WINDOW SECURER.—GEORGE E. JOHNSON, Brooklyn, New York city. The device is designed to be inserted between the jamb and door or between the sash and frame to prevent the door or window from being opened on the outside.

MONUMENT.—JOSEPH OSSOLA, Barre, Vt. Upon the monument are represented a broken plant and a worm at the point of fracture as if the plant had been eaten through.

NOTE.—Copies of any of these patents will be furnished by Munn & Co. for ten cents each. Please state the name of the patentee, title of the invention, and date of this paper.

SOMETHING TO REMEMBER.

Some of the simplest things in the world are the most efficacious. Now, for instance, if you are afraid of lightning, here's a very simple safeguard to remember—simply put on your rubbers and then stand up so that your clothes won't touch anywhere.

Notes & Queries

HINTS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Names and Address must accompany all letters or no attention will be paid thereto. This is for our information and not for publication. References to former articles or answers should give date of paper and page or number of question.

(7726) H. P. W. asks: Which will stand the heaviest current of electricity, silver, platinum, or Muesel steel, without fusing or burning up? A. Platinum has the highest melting point of any of the metals ordinarily used in electrical work.

(7727) W. R. M. asks the use of and market value of columbium, niobium, or titanium minerals. A. The cost of niobium or columbium, as it is sometimes called, is $7.50 for a 15 grain phial. Titanium costs $2.50 for a 15 grain phial.

(7728) C. G. writes: 1. I have a small motor which runs fairly well, but as a dynamo it will give no current at all. Could you tell me why it will not generate a current? A. The reason your small motor will not generate current when run as a dynamo is that its current is too weak to magnetize the fields.

(7729) C. F. T. writes: I write to ask if in your opinion lightning rods are any protection to buildings. A. We are very certain that lightning rods when properly put up are a great protection to any building.

(7730) M. C. W. asks: What is the best solder for to stop a leak in ammonia coils, something that ammonia will not affect. A. Pure tin is the only solder suitable for ammonia joints. It is in general use.

(7731) R. M. asks how can I oxidize brass and copper. A. 1. Dissolve sufficient platinum in aqua regia, and carefully evaporate the resulting solution (platinum chloride) to dryness. The dried mass may then be dissolved in alcohol, ether, or water, according to the effect which it is desired to produce, a slightly different effect being produced by each of the solutions. Apply the solution of platinum with a camel's hair brush, and repeat the operation as often as may be necessary to increase the depth of tone.

Like all publications of the United States Commission of Fish and Fisheries, it is a most interesting volume, and is freely illustrated with half-tone engravings. Foreign Trade Marks FOR American Merchants.

It is not generally understood amongst merchants that in many foreign countries the first registrant of a Trade Mark becomes the legal owner of said Mark, even though he may not be the bona fide proprietor. Many American goods are copied by foreign competitors, who put inferior goods on the market and sell them under the American Trade Marks. If these imitators have secured registration for said Trade Mark, they become, in many foreign countries, the legal owners of the Mark, and it will not be possible for the real owners afterwards to procure protection for their Trade Marks. Great hardship often arises in this manner. The only way to prevent such a course is for the American merchant to register his Trade Marks in the countries with which he has commercial relations.

Burst Water Pipes a Thing of the Past

You can now make all water pipes as secure from bursting in winter as in summer. The pneumatic system is the only one which successfully prevents the annoying and costly bursting of water pipes. It has solved a great economic problem. Highly endorsed by Architects, Engineers and Municipal Officials. No new house should be completed without this system, and all house owners should avail themselves of this "ounce of prevention" in season.
