NEW BOOKS, ETC.

ELEKTRISCHE KRAFTUEBERTRAGUNG UND KRAFTVERTEILUNG. Nach Ausfuehrungen durch die Allgemeine Elektrizitaets-Gesellschaft. Bearbeitet von C. Arldt. Third edition. Berlin: Julius Springer. 1901. Pp. 387. 16mo.

This little book, although issued by the Allgemeine Elektrizitaets-Gesellschaft, of Berlin, is not strictly a trade publication. It is compiled by an engineer primarily for the purpose of showing the advantages of the electrical drive and the various applications of electrical power. Admirably printed and illustrated, replete with electrical information of a highly technical character, the work certainly does credit to Mr. Arldt and to the company which is its sponsor.

Men Like Humor

The CENTURY MAGAZINE...

in 1902 will give special attention to humor. It will have a great number of articles and stories by the leading humorists—

"MARK TWAIN,"
"MR. DOOLEY,"
"UNCLE REMUS,"
"CHIMMIE FADDEN,"
"GEORGE ADE,"
"GELETT BURGESS."

and nearly every humorous writer you can think of. It will also have articles on the older humorists. Professor Trent's contribution to the November Century on "A Retrospect of American Humor" is one of the most interesting articles on the subject ever printed, containing upward of forty portraits of great humorists.

The Settlement of the West

Is another feature of The Century in 1902 which will interest men. It is a series of articles by Emerson Hough, who wrote the "Story of the Cowboy," giving in pictures the form the romance of the settlement of the Western country all with Remington's splendid pictures. It will be followed by Ray Stannard Baker's articles on "The Great Southwest," illustrated by Maxfield Parrish.

Besides all these things there are valuable articles on collecting, on the stage, on civic improvement and architecture, with novels and stories by leading writers.

Can You Afford to Miss The Century?
