NEW BOOKS ETC.

INDEX TO THE LITERATURE OF THE SPECTROSCOPE (1887-1900, both inclusive).
By Alfred Tuckerman, Washington, D. C.: Published by the Smithsonian Institution. 1902. Pp. 373.

In 1888 Mr. Tuckerman published a bibliography of the literature of the spectroscopy. The present volume is a continuation of that bibliography and brings the work down to 1900.

IN MY VICARAGE GARDEN AND ELSEWHERE.
By Rev. Henry N. Ellacombe, M. A. The Bodley Head, London and New York: John Lane. 1901. 16mo. Pp. 220.

Dr. Ellacombe has written an entertaining little book in which he describes in a graceful and poetic way many interesting fragrant flowers which grow not only in the house garden, but even in such a prosaic place as a railway garden. Much interesting botanical lore is interwoven with charming descriptions of plant life.

THE BOOK OF VEGETABLES. By George Wythes, V.M.H. Together with Chapters on the History and Cookery of Vegetables. By the Editor. The Bodley Head, London and New York: John Lane. 1902. 16mo. Pp. xii-106.

This is a practical book written by a practical man, covering the subject of vegetable culture concisely and thoroughly. Not only does the author tell us how garden vegetables should be grown, but he even tells something of their history and a good deal of how they should be cooked.

IRRIGATION FARMING. A Handbook for the Proper Application of Water in the Production of Crops. By Lucius M. Wilcox. New York: Orange Judd Company. 1902. 16mo. Pp. vii-494.

The present work is a revised edition of "Irrigation Farming." A revision has been rendered necessary by the improved methods which have been devised and adopted within recent years. The author is counted an authority on the subject, and discloses the theory and practice of irrigation in a way that is certain and clear.

ELECTRICAL AND MAGNETIC CALCULATIONS. By A. A. Atkinson, M.S. New York: D. Van Nostrand Company. 1902. 16mo. Pp. vii-310. Price $1.50.

Prof. Atkinson in his book has developed a method of teaching the rudiments of electrical engineering in a way that should be found particularly serviceable by the student. Through a gradual process, principles and formulae are evolved from facts previously explained or understood. After a law has been carefully developed and has been given the most concise, easily remembered and convenient working form, the method of induction gives way to that of deduction. A series of examples are then worked out illustrating the application of principles.

ESTIMATING FRAME AND BRICK HOUSES. A Practical Treatise on Estimating the Cost of Labor, and the Quantities of Materials, in the Construction of Frame and Brick Houses, and of Stables, Barns, etc. By Fred T. Hodgson. Second edition revised and enlarged with scale drawings and other illustrations. New York: David Williams Company. 1902. Pp. 224.

SUPERHEAT AND SUPERHEATERS.—The Patent Controllable Superheater and Dry Steam Generator. Adapted to all Classes of Land and Marine Boilers. Manchester, England: The Cruise Controllable Superheater Company. Square 8vo. Pp. 47.

THE SMOKE PROBLEM. By Richard J. McCarthy. Reprinted by the Kansas City Southern Railway Company for information of engineers. Pp. 24.

Experimental Science BY George M. Hopkins

EXPERIMENTAL SCIENCE is so well known to many of our readers that it is hardly necessary now to give a description of this work. Mr. Hopkins decided some months ago that it would be necessary to prepare a new edition of this work in order that the many wonderful discoveries of modern times might be fully described in its pages. Since the last edition was published, wonderful developments in wireless telegraphy, for example, have been made. It was necessary, therefore, that a good deal of new matter should be added to the work in order to make it thoroughly up-to-date, and with this object in view some 200 pages have been added. On account of the increased size of the work it has been necessary to divide it into two volumes, handsomely bound in buckram. It may be interesting to note the following additions that have been made to these volumes:
Volume I contains in addition to a large number of simple, well illustrated experiments, a full description of a 1/4 H. P. electric motor made expressly for illustration in this edition of "EXPERIMENTAL SCIENCE." It is an ENCLOSED SELF-REGULATING electric motor for a 110 volt circuit. It can be operated by a current from a 110 volt lamp-socket, yielding a full 1/4 H. P., or it may be used as a dynamo, furnishing a current capable of operating three 16-candle power, 110 volt incandescent lamps. The construction of the machine is perfect enough to admit of enlarging or reducing its size if desired.
Volume II contains much on the general subject of electricity, besides new articles of great importance. Among these the subject of alternate current machinery is treated. Wireless Telegraphy and Telephony receive attention. Electrical Measuring Instruments, The Electric Clock, The Telegraphone, Experiments in High Voltage, The Nernst Lamp, and Measuring the Heat of the Stars are all thoroughly illustrated and described.
The unprecedented sale of this work shows conclusively that it is the book of the age for teachers, students, experimenters and all others who desire a general knowledge of Physics or Natural Philosophy.
