The SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN BUILDING MONTHLY contains each month photographs and plans of dwelling houses, gardens, country estates and buildings of moderate price, together with a cover beautifully printed in tint. The illustrations are all made from photographs taken expressly for the Magazine and are printed with every advantage of the printer's art. The plans which accompany most of the illustrations present a complete synonsis of each subject and are a unique feature of this valuable Magazine. Careful and concise descriptions accompany each illustration. The illustrations include photographs of exteriors, interiors and details, views of gardens and ornamental adjuncts to the house. No expense is spared to make this Magazine the leading periodical of its class and of the utmost practical value to its readers.
