I WISH that I could meet, face to face, every man who reads this advertisement, and who thinks: "I would like to try that, but there must be a colored gentleman in the woodpile somewhere"—or turns it aside with a shrug that says: "Nonsense, it can't be done."

Fortunately, a few respond. The vast majority of these remain customers of mine. Could I talk it over face to face, I could tell them something interesting about cigars. Could I take them through my factory and show how my cigars are made, of what they are made, and incidentally dissect a few cigars of other makes, these doubting thons would become customers.

My business is manufacturing cigars. I sell the entire product of my factory direct to smokers, by the hundred and thousand, at wholesale prices. It costs me something to sell a man his first hundred; after that he orders of his own volition.

Every cigar I sell is made in my factory. I have standing orders for thousands of cigars, from all quarters of the United States, to be shipped on given days of the month as they come around. Still other thousands are sent to men who order and re-order in lots of one hundred to one thousand. Not one of these men ever heard of me excepting through my business.

My cigars must sell themselves. MY OFFER IS: I will, upon request, ship one hundred Shivers' Panetela cigars to a SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN reader, all express charges prepaid. He may smoke ten and return the remaining ninety, at my expense, if he is not pleased. If satisfied and he keeps the cigars, of course he agrees to remit the price—$5.00—for them within ten days. This applies also to subsequent orders. I simply want to give the cigars a chance to sell themselves.

In ordering please use business letterhead, or enclose business card and state whether mild, medium, or strong cigars are desired. My claim is that the equal of my Panetela cigars, which I sell at $5.00 a hundred, is not retailed anywhere for less than ten cents straight, and that no other cigar in the world is sold to the consumer at a price so near the actual cost of manufacture.

My customers are bankers, merchants, manufacturers, lawyers, physicians, clergymen—men who would not buy my cigars at any price unless they were actually good. Another fact, every visitor to my factory buys cigars.

There are no discounts to dealers or clubs. I cannot afford to make a discount on any quantity. I can only hope to succeed by giving my customers a much better cigar than they can procure in any other way at or near the same price. And I do.

Think a moment of the risk I take to make a customer—one-tenth of my cigars (all of them, should some unworthy take advantage of me), and express-both ways. How can a smoker refuse to try my cigars? Where is the possible risk to him? Provided, of course, that $5.00 per hundred is not a higher price than he cares to pay. Write me if you smoke. Address:
